The meet it is Mr. Geary, of California. through congress such drastic antie legislation. He is about forty-five as of age. This is his second term in ress. He has not been a prominent except in advocating legislation the Chinese out of the country.

The republican Richmond is Julius Casar Burraws, of Michigan. There are signs that Burrows has gone into ing for the Minneapolis convention, but he is beginning to take notice right martly. He is one of the ablest republians in the house and is also very pretty. Ex-Speaker R eed is one of his friends. Of course, Mr. Burrows's real candidacy will be contingent upon the failure of Mr. Harrison to get what he wants at the hands of the republican convention, for if the reresident is renominated, will be the vice president.

But Mr. Buri ows is doing work all the same. He will carry his boom with him to Minneapolis and will pull it if he sees by chance of his ambition being realized. Another Silver Fight.
There may be another silver fight in he senate this week. Judge Livingston. left behind him a proposed amendment to the sundry civil bill which may be the means of stirring up the goldbugs some more. The amendment, which proposes a change in the sundry civil bill, is in the hands of Mr. Moses who will present it. The bill as it now stands makes provision for the recoining of all uncurrent minor coins now in the treasury. The amendment proposes that all the silver bullion, as well as ah the uncurrent minor

Before leaving the city last night Judge Livingston said to The Constitution correspondent that in his opinion the amendment would hardly be thrown out on a oint of order, as it did not change existing law nor was it new legislation. If the amendment should be adopted it would result in the coinage of nearly $100,000,-000 worth of bullion if ito standard silver dollars. The government would be the miner by that course, seigniorage being included in the gain about $30,000,000. Such a gain could not be unwelcome just now when the treasury is pretty nearly empty. The amendment is very shrewdly led and the goldbu 3s will have considerable trouble getting it out of the way, even if it should not be adopted. Will Show Up Blatue.

Representative Geary, of California, intends to give Secretary Blaine an opportunity of letting the country know what he thinks of civil when it comes down to putting it into precise. practice. He will introduce in the house tomorrow or early in the week a resolution calling upon the secretary of state for his reasons for getting rid of Mr. F. A. Bancroft, the librarian of the department of state. Mr. Baincroft is the last of the bureau officers a ppointed while Mr. Cleveland was president. He comes within the protection that is supposed by some to be afforded by the civil service law. A young hanger-on of the Blaine family, named Allen, wanted Mr. Bancroft's place and so Mr. Blaine sent the latter's name to the senate as consul to Brunswick, Germany, without saying a word to him about it. He knew that Mr. Bancroft would not take the place. All he wanted was a vacancy for young Al-len. Mr. Bancroft is at the head of the civil service reform club and is a wellknown lecturer upon matters relating to diplomacy. E. W. B.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRES'S.

Measures Which Will Occupy the Time of Both Houses.

Washington, May 15.—The prompt passage of appropriation bills equatinues to be the policy of the majority of the house, and in pursuance of this policy the coming week will be devoted almost excitatively to appropriations. Tomorrow is "suspension day," but at the present time no bills have been scheduled for passage under the two-thirds rule, though it yet may be decided to recognize one or two members for the passage of some bill of a vinor importance under the suspension pro cedure.

The consideration of the sundry civil bill will then be resumed and this measure passed to a final vote as speedily as possible bassed to a final vote as speedily as possible.

In the very nature of its composition the consideration of this bill is always tedious and it is unsafe to predict how long it will be necessary to bring it to a vote.

Yote.

Either the postoffice or the fortification appropriation bill will follow the sundry civil bill unless, as is not thought pribable, Mr. Hatch should successfully anta gonize their consideration with the anti-q ptions bill. The Sibley tent claims bill has been a chronic standing order for Fridayis, but it is likely that the appropriation matrigers will endeavor next Friday to put it aside for the present.

The week will open with an air of gloom in the senate, as Monday will be devoted to the funeral services of the late Senator Barbour, of Virginia. Under the pressing necessities of public business, however, the senate will soon return to its normal state of activity, probably resuming the consideration of the naval appropriation bill Tuesday.

It is probable that after the passage of that measure there will be a class among several other bills, which will occupy positions of a more or less privileged character. The silk culture bill was made a special order for Monday, and its friends may endeavor to have it considered the next day, but this would trench upon the time allotted by the special order for the consideration of United States district attorneys. What may prove to be an effective obstacle to both of these measures, however, is the river and harbor bill, which Senator Frye, according to notice, will call up Tuesday. If this bill is taken up its consideration will, doubtless, consume the greater part of the week, displacing even the unfinished business, which is the compulsory pilotage bill.

EENATOR VANCE'S ILLNESS.

SENATOR VANCE'S ILLNESS. He Recovers Sufficiently to Return to Washington.

Washington, May 15.—Senator Vance arrived here this morning from his mountain home, at Gombroom, N. C., where he was taken sick the middle of last week. Although the senator rode ten miles in a buckboard yesterday and spent last night on the cars, he made the trip without serious discomfort. Aside from the disagreeable effects of the mustard plaste and hot bags to his body and of the morning and hot bags to his body and of the morning him administered to him to relieve his sufferings, he is comparatively convortable. When he reached his home is ate a light breakfast, took a warm bad and went to bed, where he enjoyed a rest after his long journey. Later in the dry he sat up for a time.

Mrs. Vance, the senator's wife, says she hopes it will be a matter of but a few days before her husband is able to be out again and resume his senatorial duties. The cause of his recent attack, she said, was the result of a little imprudence on the part of the senator. He was engaged during his recent visit to Gombroom in superintending the operations on the plantation. One day in the middle of last week while the sun was very warm he stood out in the damp field for some time, talking with one of his employes. As a consequence he perspired freely. Going up to his house, he sat down in a large comfortable chair on the shady side of the veranda, and while sitting there he was taken with a chill, which later developed into lumbago and sciatica. Owing to the remoteness of the place, considerable delay was experienced in obtaining the services of a physician, during which time the senator suf-to the remoteress of the place, considerable delay was experienced in obtaining the services of a physician, during which time the senator suffered intensely. Domestic remedies were applied, but they did not bring substantial relief. After waiting some time, a physician arrived at his house and, administering a hypodermic injection of morphine, succeeded in alleviating the sufferings of the senator in a very brief time.

THE DEAD SENATOR.

Arrangements for the Funeral of the Late

Washington, May 15.—There was a large number of sympathizing callets at the residence of the late Senator Barbour today, who came with tributes of respect and affection for the dead Virginia. Messages of condolence were received from every sec-tion of the state of Virginia. Early in the morning Vice President Morton called to tender his sympathy or the death of the honored member of the body over which he presides. Justice Field of the supreme court, and Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, were also at the house.

A majority of those persons who came, however, were Virginians, many of Senator Barbour's fellow-townsmen, from Alexandria, as well as prominent men of other parts of the state and from Baltimore.

tary Halford a message expressing President Harrison's regret at being unable to attend the funeral exercises tomorrow. It was as follows:

Executive Manslon, Washington, May 14.—Sir: The president directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your note informing him of the sudden death of Hon. John S. Barbour, late senator from the state of Virginia, and inviting him to be present at the funeral services to be held in the senate chamber on Monday, the 16th instant.

The sad announcement reaches him just as he is leaving the city with Mrs. Harrison, who has been in ill health for some time. But for the command of the physician that Mrs. Harrison's trip he not further postponed, the president would esteem it a privilege to remain and participate with the senate in the offices of respect to the distinguished senator.

At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning the remains will be conveyed to the marble room of the senate. The senate will meet at 12 o'clock and an hour later the body will be taken into the senate chamber, where the funeral services will be held.

There was a largely attended meeting of the Virginia Democratic Association this morning at the Mctropolitan hotel to take suitable action on the death of Senator Barbour. H. Briscoe presided, with R. N. Harper as secretary. Among those persons in the room were Judge Keith, of the circuit court of Virginia, Hon. Frank Hume, L. Q. Washington, Congressman E. E. Meredith, R. C. Glasscock and Captain J. A. Jones. Speeches were made by Messrs. Washington, Hume and others, and suitable resolutions were adopted.

Will Gather at Chickamanga. Will Gather at Chickamangs.

Washington, May 15.—The next annual reunion of the Army of the Cumberland, at Chickamanga, has been finally fixed for September 15th and 16th. It will thus take place, the week before the Grand Army encampment at Washington, instead of the week after as first planned. Western railroads will sell tickets at reduced rates to Chattanooga and, if desired, return by Washington. General Rosecrans, president of he Society of the Army of the Cumberland, has information indicating a large gathering on the battlefield to inspect the work of establishing a national park which is now progressing with great rapidity.

Florida Oranges for Europe Jacksonville, Fla., May 15.—A revolution in marketing the Florida orange crop will be made the coming season, when two fast steamships with a capacity of 25,000 boxes each will be placed en route between Jacksonville and Liverpool. These vessels have recently been engaged in carrying oranges from Spanish ports to those of the United Kingdom and have landed their cargoes in better condition than any other ships. They are fitted with immense "fore and aft" ventilation pipes which carry currents of fresh air constantly through the holds. The first ship will be here about October 20th and will make the run in about thirteen days.

Utah Democratic Convention.

Utah Democratic Convention. Utah Democratic Convention.

Ogden, Utah, May 15.—The territorial democratic convention yesterday elected Judge H. P. Henderson and John T. Caine delegates to the Chicago convention. The platform denounces the system of government forced on Utah by the nation, demands home rule at once, if not statchood, and the remonetization of silver; and denounces the minority report of the house committee on territories relative to the home rule oill as false, slanderous and infamous.

The Presidential Party. Fort Monroe, Va., May 15.—The president and party arrived here about 10 o'clock this morning. They had a pleasant run down. Mrs. Harrison is much improved by the trip.

Butte, Mont., May 15.-(Special.)-An appallin accident occurred at the Anaconda nines yesterday. Twelve men were caugh in a cave in that took place from the 50 level down to the 800. The ground at the place where the accident occurred is sloped more or less all the way ort, so when it gave way at the 800 level al above as stated, gave way too. The eccident is simply one of those unavoidable occurrences that may be expected at any time, but cannot be foreseen or prevented. There were a dozen men working level and tat various distances down from it. They were all caught in the cave. Three of them were near the top and were rescued alive, but badly injured. The other nine are so covered with debris, rocks and timbers that life must have at once been crushed out of them. The bodies of three have so far been recovered. All were unmar ried. The work of recovering the other is slowly proceeding, but has to be undertaken with care. Only meager particulars are yet known.

A BLAZE AT JACKSONVILLE Destroys Property to the Amount of About

Jacksonville, Fla., May 15.—At 4 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the residence of Henry Mason, on West Adams street, in Lavilla, a suburb, and before it was gotten under control by the department the fire had destroyed eleven residences and two stores, one drug and one grocery. The area burned is on the south side of West Adams street, between Second and Third streets, and extends south nearly to Forsyth street. The buildings were mostly inexpensive wooden structures, and burned like a tinder box. The total loss is about twelve thousand dollars; insurance only $2,500. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

BRAVE NEWSPAPER MEN

Take Part in a Riot in Columbia and

Columbia, S. C., May 15.—(Special.)—
Late last night this city was threatened with a race riot. For some time it looked as if considerable blood must be shed, and that Chief of Police Radcliffe would fall a victim to the passions of a mob of at least two hundred enraged negroes. Had it not been for his coolness and the promptness of the action of citizens and friends who came to his assistance just it, the nick of time.

been for his coolness and the promptness of the action of citizens and friends who came to his assistance just in the nick of time, he would certainly have been killed.

The riot occurred just under the shadow of the city hall and within a few steps of the busiest portion of Main street. Just here there happened, as usual on Saturday nights, to be a crowd of the roughest negroes in the town. Chief Radcliffe determined to put a stop to these disorderly gatherings. In clearing away the crowd, a negress, Mary Hopson, became impudent and was moved off the sidewalk by the chief. She complained to her brother John, to whom the chief was pointed out.

"That is the gray-haired scoundrel who pushed me off."

The chief arrested her and John sprang at him and both men went to the ground in the struggle. Two officers came to the chief's assistance, while the negroes drew razors and indulged in threatening cries. Mr. Frank Stevens, of The State, jumped into the meleo. One powerful negro who was ripping and snorting and striking at the chief, was quickly subdued by Mr. Stevens, who gave him a fearful blow in the stomach that knocked the breath out of him. Several negroes slashed at Stevens with their razors, but he was unhurt. While things were in this feverish condition and the excitement was mometarily increasing, the reportorial brigade settled the matter, a half dozen newspaper men rushing into the throng and forming a wall between the chief and his prisouer and the mob of frenzied negroes. On the way to the jail Captain Radcliffe's friends stuck to him and although about one hundred and fifty negroes followed him, no attempt was made at rescue.

THE RIVERS SUBSIDING And the People of Kansas City Are Feeling Easier.

Easier.

Kansas City, May 15.—The flooded missouri and Kaw_rivers are subsiding and residents of the submerged suburbs will rest in safety. Last night the rivers were rising an inch an hour and there were many who passed a sleepless night, fearful lest the invading waters would carry away their houses or flood them. All night people were moving out of their houses in Argentine and Armourdale. Today, however, the Kaw has been steadily receding. It began to fall last night and at 6 o'clock this afternoon the guage marked a decline of two feet and three inches. A similar fall of course took place in the flooded towns of Argentine and Armourdale and they left houses on more elevated streets, high and dry, while those in the lower flats will be relieved of water by tomorrow if the fall in the Kaw during the night is proportionate to its fall today.

Baron Fava's Return.

Baron Fava's Return.

New York, May 15.—Baron Fava, the Italian minister to the United States, arrived here today by the steamer La Gascogne. Representatives from the united Italian societies were down to quarantine on the steamer Laura, Mr. Starin intending to take the baron off, but the sea was too rough. So the welcoming party returned with the steamer and took the baron on board, going up the river about the harbor and landing him in Jersey City in time to take the 3 o'clock p. m. train for Washington. Baron Fava expressed his pleasure at returning to the United States where he said he formed many good friends. He had always worked, he said, and would continue to work to strengthen the friendly relations existing between the two countries and between the king of Italy and the president of the United states.

Drowned in the Catawba.

Charlotte, N. C., May 15.—(Special.)—
Mr. Constantine Davidson, one of the best known men in this portion of the state, was drowned in the Catawba river at Moore's ferry late Friday afternoon. After crossing the river Mr. Davidson's horse became unmanageable and backed the buggy into the river. The body was found this morning at sunrise, after an all-night search. The horse was also drowned.

> Escapes Injury, WHILE EIGHT OR TEN ARE KILLED,

The Horrible Accident Near Cleves on Yesterday-List of the Killed and Injured.

Cleveland, O., May 15.-A special to The Plaindealer from Cleves, O., says: In the midst of a terrific storm of wind and rain, two Big Four trains crashed into each other near Cleves, O., this morning with awful effect, the horrors of which are not yet known. This morning the summer schedule went into effect and orders had been issued accordingly Freight No. 43, a through train north, had orders to stop at North Bend to allow No. 80, a cannon ball express, to pass. The trains usually passed at another point some miles further on. Instead of stopping, the freight engineer pulled ahead and approached Cleves, running about twenty miles an hour. Why he did not stop at North Bend will never be known, as he is dead, but it is thought in his anxiety over the storm, which might have washed out bridges, he forgot the new schedule and hurried on.

As the train approached Cleves, Charles Smith, telegraph operator, was shocked, for he knew it should have side-tracked at North Bend, and that the express, a few minutes over due, was then but a short distance away, running at fortyfive miles per hour to make up lost time. Smith rushed to the signal wires and put out a danger signal. Either it was not seen in the blinding rain, or the engineer coald not control his engine, for it sped on by without checking speed.

The Danger Signal.

At that moment the express came in sight at the speed of the wind. If any effort was made by either engineer to slacken speed it was not appreciable, and the engines crashed into each other with a sound above the storm like a clap of thunder.

Both engines were battered into shapeless masses and rolled off the track.

The cars behind were smashed kindling and the track for 100 feet was torn up. Telegraph poles were thrown down and it was two or three hours after the wreck before word reached this place and a special train sent to the scene from

Caring for the Injured.

It was long before the people from the little village and from the surrounding country had gathered and in the frightful storm were doing all they could. Many of the wounded had been taken away and the and mashed out of all hnuman shape. Under the freight engine, bruised and scalded were found Engineer William Heggs and his fireman, Hiram Bruce, both of Indianapolis. Under a wrecked freight car further back Philip Gibbon and David Heywood were found nearly every bone broken and their faces horribly disfigured.

The fifth dead body was that of Berry Edwards, engineer of the passenger train. His fireman, Hy Tyrel, had jumped before the crash, but had been caught under a mass of wreckage. His skull was cruched and his head cut. He was taken to Lawrenceburg, but cannot survive tonight.

John Schroder, conductor of the passengen train, was injured in almost the same manner and can live but a few hours. gen train, was injured in almost the same manner and can live but a few hours. George W. Huber, a commercial traveler, from Miamisburg, was crushed between two seats, being bent almost double. He was brought to this city and taken to Cincinnati hospital. He cannot live. Julius Webber, chief clerk of County Coroner Bange, of Cincinnati, has just returned from the wreck and says the scene is one of the worst he ever saw. He thinks there are from five to ten more dead in the ruins, but the exact number cannot be told tonight.

Thrown Over a Telegraph Wire. Bonney Keefe, freight brakeman, had just reached the top of a car when the col-lision occurred. The crash was so terrible that he was thrown over a telegraph wire forty feet into a stream of water, which alone saved his life. He thinks there are at least three tramps under the wreck of the freight. Several passengers on the express are positive that several of their number were also killed. It is certain they are missing, but they may be among the wounded scattered about.

Owing to the distance from the city and the prostration of telegraph wires by the ac-cident and telephone wires by the storm, details have been very slow in coming in, and no complete list of the wounded can be and no complete list of the wounded can be given. The property loss is very severe and will be $100,000. Both engines are complete wrecks and the coaches of the express train are ruined. It is claimed that much valuable mail and express matter is lost. A dozen freight cars loaded with costly goods are a total loss.

Revised List of the Killed.

Engineer Newberry Edwards, of Greens burg, Ind., of the passenger.

Acting Baggree Master Philip Gibbon, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., of the passenger. Engineer William Higgs, of Indianapolis, of the freight train. Fireman Hiram Bruce, of the freight train, of Greensburg, Ind.

Conductor David Heywood, of Indianapo lis, of the freight.
List of the Injured.

J. C. Huber, a passenger, Miamisburg, O., knee pan broken and head cut slightly.
Helton Terrell, a passenger, aged eighteen, son of Dr. Ferrell, of Delhi, O., scalded all over the body; cannot live.
Conductor John Schroder, a passenger of the train, crushed mortally between the cars.
Mrs. Moreland, of North Bend, Ind., slightly bruised.

Missing.

Of five to eight passengers supposed to have been in the smoker which was buried in the wreck, nothing is known at this hour as to where they are. It is a matter of rumor that there were five to eight in that car. No one is able to conceive how many of them can escape death until that mass of wreckage is cleared. The freight train was going west and the passenger train was an accommodation coming to Cincinnatti from Lawrenceburg and Elizabethtown. The collision occurred at a bend in the road west of Cleves about eighteen miles from here with both trains at full speed.

What Witnesses Say.

What Witnesses Say.

At the scene of the wreck the road was lined with cottages. A blinding rain was falling at the time and the schedule was new. Somebody had blundered. Who that is, is the question in dispute at this writing. Stories are numerous and conconflicting. Members of the crew who should know most about it are numbered with the silent majority and their testimony will never be heard. A woman living in one of the cottages by the roadside says she saw the trains but heard no warning whistle. Another witness says one short, wild shrick of the whistle of one train preceded the crash. Then the locomotives plunged into each other like demons and tumbled down together beside the track, and the passenger and freight cars smashed upon them. In the ruinous confusion of the wreckage a fire started. A messenger rushed to Clives, The fire bell rang.

People rushed to the scene and prevented the wreck burning up. The wounded were removed to Cleves under the care of Dr. Hughes, of that place. Dr. Muscraft, of Clicinnati, with two aids, soon came to the scene and the best care possible was given to the injured. There was few of the usual accompaniments of the wreck at the scene as there were but a few left on the fated trains to utter cries of distress. Those who escaped were too much dazed to make out to cry. Relief was very

Those who escaped were too much dazed to make out to cry. Relief was very prompt and everything possible for the re-lief of the wounded was done quickly.

Affecting Incidents. One of the never-to-be-forgotten scenes was the death of Breakman Gibbon. He lingered until the afternoon conscious all the time. He had a young wife that he had kissed young wife that he had kissed goodby an hour before. All his grief and his talk were about his wife. In the agonies of death, till his tongue was stilled, he spoke only of her. Again and again he begged some one to pray. At last, in response to his pleadings, an old colored minister stepped timidly to his bedside. The dying man asked the sable man of God to go on. Then and there, as the fervid petition arose from the trembling lips of that colored divine, there was a scene of solemnity that none present will soon forget and none ever experienced before. His words seemed to deeply move all listeners, as if they were inspired and silent tears wet every eye.

DEATH AT THE SWITCH. A Bad Wreck on the Norfolk and Western

Hagerstown, Md., May 15.—A serious wreck occurred on the Norfolk and Western railroad at Moudel's Switch, about miles south of Hagerstown, last night in which Captain Hayes, of Philadelphia, conductor of the train, lost his life, and sevductor of the train, lost his life, and several others were seriously if not fatally injured. The train left Hagerstown for Roanoke at 12:40 o'clock this morning, and was running at its usual rate of speed when it reached Moudel's Switch. All of the train except one coach and a sleeper passed the switch in safety, when in some way, that cannot be explained, but possibly by the jarring of the train, the switch opened. The rest of the train ran off into a siding and the smoking car on the train was completely demolished.

It is supposed that when the wreck took place Captain Hayes was just passing from a passenger coach to the smoker and was thrown against rocks along the road and killed instantly. The other persons injured are: John R. Hanuke, of Lewistown, Pa., skull fractured, one of his legs broken and injured internally. He is still unconscious and it is doubtful whether he will recover. Another young man, whose name cannot be learned, skull fractured and injured internally. There was nothing about him to he were doing all they could. Many of the wounded had been taken away and the number cannot tonight be definitely known. It is claimed that some of those thus removed are in a dying condition. Not a person on either train escaped uninjured.

With the arrival of the special train the work of getting out the dead began. Up to 6 o'clock five dead bodies had been reovered, four of them shockingly mangled and mashed out of all hnuman shape. Under the freight engine, bruised and scalded were found Engineer William Heggs and his fireman, Hiram Bruce, both of Indianapolis. Under a wrecked freight car further back Philip Gibbon and David Heywood were found nearly every home broken.

What Colonel Courtenay Says About the As-What Colonel Courtenay Says About the Assault Upon Senator Hill.

Considution Bureau, Columbia, S. C., May 15.—Ex. Mayor William A. Courtenay, of Charleston, was in the city today. Mr. Courtenay is considered one of the ablest men in the state as well as one of the richest bankers. In conversation with your correspondent today he said:

"I think the denunciation that has appeared in The News and Courier of David mett Hill is simply outrageous. I am a Hill man myself. The democratic party owes much to the statesman who made both branches of the New York legislature democratic."

Mr. Courtenay is probably the most prominently mentioned man to succeed Gov-ernor Tillman in 1894. It is thought that he will be a delegate to the national demo-

the Bace in the Second.

Albany, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—The latest development in the political situation in the second district is the candidacy of Hon. B. E. Russell, of The Bainbridge Democrat. Mr. Russell has been making some telling speeches for Mr. Turner recently and yesterday went from Brunswick to Camilla by a special train where he made a strong speech in favor of the straightout candidacy. The first information of his candidacy was received in this city last night and was given to the public today. Judge William M. Hammond, of Thomas county it is said, will also enter the race and endeavor to pluck the congressional prize. The political atmosphere down here is decidedly warm and growing warmer each day as the campaign progresses.

Greene's Executive Committe

Greenesboro, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—The democratic executive committee of this county met yesterday for the purpose of permanent organization. The committee elected Hon. Henry T. Lewis, chairman, and Mr. Edward Young, secretary. There was a full gathering of the committee, and the body is stirring for an earnest and eager campaign. THROW OUT THE BOX

Masked Men Stop a Stage Coach in California.

ARE FIRED UPON BY THE MESSENGER

The Robbers Return the Fire, Mortally Wounding One Man,

AND FILLING OTHERS WITH BUCKSHOT.

Express Boxes Carried Off by the Scoundrels Thought to Contain Nearly Twenty Thousand Dollars,

Redding, Cala., May 15.-A stage robbery and murder occurred near here last evening. The Redding and Shasta stage had reached the top of the long grade five miles above Redding, on the river road, when it was stopped by the same two highwaymen who stopped it Tuesday evening last. John Boyce was driving with a man named G. J. Cuhr on the box beside him. Buck Montgomery, the messenger, was on the back seat inside. A man armed with a shotgun and wearing a red bandanna mask ordered the stage to stop and the passenger on the box to throw up his hands. He then ordered the box to be thrown out. The driver complied, but the messenger inside fired upon the highwaymen, who dropped to their knees and then hiding in the bush, returned the fire with rifles. The messenger was shot in the navel and several more bullets were lodged in the seat. The passenger received three buckshot in the right leg and the driver got five buckshot near the right knee. The robbers then disappeared with the boxes. The team started to run, but George Cuhr held the lines. Dr. Stevenson and wife, who were going to Shasta, met the stage. The passenger was kneeling down in the boot, driving, the driver was operating the brakes, while the messenger lay in a pool of blood inside. Dr. Stevenson took charge of the team and drove two miles to Middle Creek, while his wife drove to Redding for Dr. Lower.

A reporter visited the scene and found Montgomery in a dying condition at a hotel at Middle Creek, with his wife beside him. The driver and Cuhr were not seriously hurt. The Wells-Fargo boxes are supposed to contain rich treasure, some placing the estimate as high as $20,000. The messenger died about 10 o'clock last night. The highwaymen are supposed to be old convicts. A large posse is out searching for them. One of mem was undoubtedly wounded.

A COWARDLY ATTACK. A Lady Knocked on the Head While Sleep-

Birmingham, Ala., May 15.-The community around Childersburg is stirred up over a cruel assault by an unknown man on a sleeping woman. While D. C. Bryant was at a Masonic lodge last night a man entered his dwelling four miles out in the country, and getting into the bedroom, woke Mrs.
Bryant by striking her several terrible blows about the head with a lightwood knot. The lady was alone, except two small children, and when she screamed he seized her by the throat and choked her to almost insensibility. When she revived she made a sensibility. When she revived, she made a noise which frightened ber assailant and he left. She is a delicate woman and is likely to die. Two negroes were arrested today charged with the crime and are in Childersburg calaboose. The proof of their connection with the crime is being awaited by an enraged posse of citizens

Suicide the Result of La Grippe

Abbeville, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—Mr. T. W. McMillan, a prosperous and respected citizen of this place, killed himself yesterday morning about 8 o'clock. Mr. McMillan had been suffering for several months from the effects of la grippe, and his act is undoubtedly attributed to the despondent condition in which the disease left him. The family had left the room, and the first intimation which they had was the report of a pistol. Hastening to the room they found the deceased upon his bed with two bullet holes in his forehead and a pistol near by. Mr. McMillan left a large family. The entire community will mourn the loss of so good a man.

"Whereas. There is to be an election for a board of directors of this company on May 16th, and, "Whereas, The banks of this city are largely interested in the stock and securities of this company, and will represent impartially the interests of all concerned, therefore, be it "Resolved, That the presidents of the several banks in this city be requested to confer with Mr. H. M. Comer, the president of the company, and in conjunction with him to choose and recommend such a board of directors to the stockholders as they shall deem most to the advantage of this company."

In accordance with said resolution the undersigned, representing all of the banks in this city, have conferred fully with Mr. H. M. Comer, and after due and impartial consideration of this very important matter we beg to recommend to you as fit and proper persons to be chosen as directors on May 16th, the following gentlemen: H. M. Comer, Joseph Hull, J. K. Garnett, Abraham Vetsburg, George J. Mills, Henry R. Jackson, Charles H. Phinizy, Evan P. Howell, Henry D. McDanlel, Charles S. Fairchild, W. G. Raoul, S. R. Jaques and U. B. Harold, The charter of your company requires that eleven of the thirteen directors shall be residents of Gaorgia. We think a sufficient number of the board should be residents of Savannah, or within easy access thereto, so that a quorum can be had on short notice. Without arrogating to ourselves any superior wisdom or judgment over others, we think it is true as stated in the resolution, that we are in a position to "represent impartially the interests of all concerned."

as stated in the resolution, that we are in a position to "represent impartially the interests of all concerned."

After the most careful consideration of the great interests involved, we have suggested such changes in your present board as have occurred to us as right and proper. We are informed that those of the present board whose names have been left off by us, do not care for, and some, if not all of them, decline a re-election. Perfect harmony in your board is essential to the interests of the stockholders and creditors, and absolutely indispensable to the success of your company. Any fractional fight among the minority stockholders or discordant elements in the board would be serious and might be disastrous to the best efforts directed toward a restoration of confidence and credit. The securities of your company and its dependencies have been favorite investments for the people of Georgia, and many of the women and children, widows and orphans, of our state, have their all in them. The banks of this city, over which we have the honor to preside, and their stockholders and customers, are largely interested in your company and we necessarily feel the deepest concern for its welfare and ested in your company and we necessarily feel the deepest concern for its welfare and feel the deepest concern for its welfare and prosperity.

The names presented by us are familiar to you. The gentlemen recommended for your board are worthy of your confidence and support. Their election will give you a harmonious board, and we believe they will at once revive and in a very short time fully restore confidence and credit which, and which alone, are necessary to place your company in the high position it once commanded.

The report is signed by John Flannery, president of the Southern Bank of Georgia; Joseph D. Weed, president of the Savannah Bank and Trust Company; Samuel P. Hamilton, president of the Merchants' National bank of Savannah, Henry Blun, president muel P. Hamilton, president of vannah, Henry Blun, president Germania bank; Charles H. Olmstead, cesident Chatham bank; Herman Mayer, resident National bank of Savannah, and 3. H. Denmark, president of Citizens' bank of Savannah.

The changes in the board are the substitution of the names of H. M. Comer, S. R. Jaques, of Macon; Henry D. McDaniel, of Monroe; W. G. Raoul, of New York, and Charles S. Fairchild, of New York, in the place of General E. P. Alexander, J. C. Maben, James Swann, of New York; H. T. Inman, of Atlanta, and G. M. Sorrel, of New York. It will be remembered that Maben was never qualified; Swann has not sent his resignation in formally but he had notified the directors that he was thoroughly in accord with them and that he would not stand in the way of any reorganization.

well filled. The address from L. S. Coffin was especially well received.

Mr. Coffin was introduced in a five minutes' speech by Judge Speer and proceeded at once to give some startling statistics as to the number of deaths caused in the course of a year in the United States by accidents brought about by the use of the coupling pin and the hand brake on top of the cars. He also dwelt at length on the evils of intemperance and its effects on railroad travel.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Dr. McFerrin.

The Atlanta and Florida,

Under the petition last filed in the Atlanta and Florida case by Judge Tompkins, in behalf of the Central Trust Company, of New York, the request for a new receiver was made in the United States court yesterday. Judge Tompkins asked that either Mr. Plant be reappointed or another appointment be made, and that Plant, the old receiver, account to Plant, the new receiver. Mr. Marion Erwin, representing Mr. Plant, the receiver, objected to this proceeding, and the whole case went over to next Wednesday.

A Political Development. A Political Development.

An interesting and somewhat startling development in the political foreast for Bibb county is to the effect that the workingmen of Bibb will unite upon three candidates, and that their favorites for the legislature will be J. F. Hanson, A. O. Bacon and W. A. Huff. The gentlemen themselves are non-committal on the subject, but the straws on the stream show which way its current flows, and that being so it is not at all improbable that these three gentlemen will be in the race with a strong support.

His visit to Atlanta was on business connected with his hotel.

Mr. Leeds Greenleaf, one of the most prom-nent citizens of New Orleans, is in the city visiting Mr. Edgar Hunnicutt. CITY NOTES.

The Armour Packing Company and the Atlanta Beef Company Saturday such Tax Collector Stewart for $5,000 each. The cause of the suit was the issuing of fi fas against them for the collection of the special tax of $500 levied on them.

The work of carving on the Equitable building was completed Saturday. Messrs. Hanley and Waters, two energetic young men, had charge of the work and they made a spiendid job of it. Their work added much to the extreme beauty of the building and is very ornamental. The enterprising young men are from Chicago.

On Thursday and Friday next there will given some good racing at Piedmont park.
Mr. R. E. Branch has a string of eight horses, Mr. Madden has five and there are about the same number in other stables. There will be a trotting class of 2:45, and a free for all pacing. Some local horses of noted speed will also contest.

The many friends of Mr. L. C. Walker will regret to learn of his serious filmess again at his home, 63 Daniel street.

Of the Democracy of Monroe County | The Annual Convention of the a Forcible Speech Against the Third Party Movement—Hon. T. B. Cab-aniss and B. L. Berner Speak.

Forsyth, Ga., May 15 .- (Special.)-It was a grand and glorious victory that the demo-cratic party achieved here yesterday. Perhaps, no stronger or more forcible ar-

Pye's opera houre was packed to over flowing with true and loyal citizens of Geor-gia and Monroe county to hear the political issues of the day discussed, and when Col-onel J. T. Crowder chairman of the demonel J. T. Crowder enarman of the democratic executive committee of Monroe county, announced the first speaker, Colonel W. Y. Atkinson, chairman of the democratic executive committee of Georgia, he approached the front of the stage amid a shout and a cheer from the democracy that fairly made the walls of the opera house tremble.

approached the front of the stage amid a shout and a cheer from the democracy that fairly made the walls of the opera house tremble.

Mr. Atkinson's speech was one that carried conviction with every remark. He spoke in a very forcible manner against the malignant and outrageous planks in the people's party platform, and when he reached the twelfth plank, in reference to paying the union soldiers the difference in the depreciated value of greenbacks and silver and gold, some enthusiastic third party man asked, "Was that in the platform?"

The evidence that Mr. Atkinson produced to satisfy this third partyite was very conclusive, and showed that if the plank wasn't there it was close around ready to be used—and is being used—to catch the soldier vote of the north.

The next speaker wie Hon. T. B. Cabaniss, of this city. Colonel Cabaniss, as has always been his wont, spoke in an enthusitatic manner of the democratic party. He said that it was almost useless for him to speak at all, after the speech of Mr. Atkinson, and was satisfied that there were few, if any, unconverted men in the house. His speech was well received and sank another nail home for democracy and the relief of a tax-burdened and outraged people. Colonel Robert L. Berner, who so gallantly stood up before a large concourse of third partyitts last Saturday at Pleasant Grove, this county, where he fearlessly and without a tremor in his voice, so eloquently espoused the cause of democracy, was introduced as the third speaker, and simply "took the rag off the bush." His speech was a very matter of fact one, dwelling chiefly upon the iniquitous tartiff laws now in existence, and when, in conclusion, he earnestly appealed to the people who had deserted the grand and good old party to "Come back within the fold," his appeal sent a thrill into every heart present. And they will come back.

Today old Monroe is ready to unfurl her banner for democracy and march in the front ranks to help whip a fight by the monopolists against the masses, to regain the relief

A Very Large Attendance at the Convention in Milledgeville.

WHAT THE LADIES DID SATURDAY.

Reports of Superintendents of Depart ments-Address of Mrs. Chapin. Beveral Invitations Accepted.

Milledgeville, Ga., May 15 .- (Special.)-The deliberations of the Georgia Woman's Christian Temperance Union Saturday were fraught with even more interesting features than the previous day. A number of new delegates arrived on the early trains and were given seats in the convention, swelling the attendance to something more than a hundred, and immense interest was demonstrated by all present. Several very heated discussions took place during the day, among which was one in regard to chang-ing that part of the constitution relating to dues, making it optional with local unions to collect dues at any time that they may see fit. The movement was overruled, however, and the constitution remains un-ever, and the constitution remains unchanged.

The reports of superintendents of department work were very encouraging to the convention and were several times greeted with applause. During the day invitations were received from the Industrial college and Middle Georgia Mechanical and Agricultural college authorities to visit those institutions, which were accepted with thanks. An invitation was also accepted from the dummy line authorities to visit the lunatic asylum on Monday evening.

Yesterday afternoon the convention voted a donation of $100 a year for three years to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union chantauqua recently established at Asheville, N. C. Right here another discussion took place as to how this money should be raised, which was finally settled by contributions being guaranteen by the presidents of local unions.

The address of Mrs Chapin, national and world organizer, yesterday afternoon was listened to by several hundred people and had a good effect.

The convention adjourned all business sessions until Monday morning, but carried on devotional exercises today.

Atlanta is well represented by Mrs. E. C. Witter, Mrs. M. L. McLendon, Mrs. E. A. Sexton, Mrs. H. A. Austin, Mrs. J. B. Merritt, Mrs. George Weimar and Misses Lena Bridwell and Missouri H. Stokes, among whom are distributed some of the most important offices of the union.

Sunday Services.

Today was an interesting one with the state Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which is in convention here, At 11 o'clock this morning Rev. Allen Thomas, of the Methodist church, preached on the interest of their work and a great crowd heard his eloquent sermon. He arraigned the liquor business, gambling and other evils of the day in a vigorous manner.

A children's mass meeting was held this evening and speeches were made by Mrs. Sexton, of Atlanta; Mrs. Sibley, of Union Point, and Miss Reynolds of Rome. They spoke in the interes' of the "Loyal Legions," the children's auxiliary of the regular woman's temperance work. Sunday Services.

gions," the children's auxiliary of the regular woman's temperance work.

Mrs. Felton speaks tonight on "The Duty of Mothers," and a great throng will hear her address. She was sick in bed all during the day, but will keep her engagement for the speech in spite of her illness. The Methodist choir furnishes music for the meetings and the voluntary this morning, Mozart's "Twelfth Mass," was especially fine.

charmed with Millodgeville and declare that the entertainment they have received is bet-ter than was given the world's convenion at Boston. Every institution and enterprise has been turned over to them and their idle time is given to visiting the different places of inerest here. They will visit the girl's Industrial college in a body in the morning and the military cellege tomorrow after-pied by Scarratt, at Anction, Wednesday, May 18th, 11 A. M.

This lot fronts three streets—Broad, Luckle and Peachtree. Forsyth street on the west is filling up with business houses. The Phillips, Loyd and Alexander properties must soon be the sites of business blocks. Luckle from Broad to Focsyth will be a first-class business street in a few years. Broad street property equals the best in the city and five and tenstory buildings, hotels, stores, store-fiats will go up in the Healy, Grant, Wyly and other lots between Luckle and Marietta, and the new Collier hotel, the "Arragon," the magnificent new theater, Griffin block, north of this corner, are but the beginning of what is soon to follow. At no distant day the plain one and two-story buildings from the Methodist church on Peachtree all the way down to Wheat, in front of this corner, will give way to costiy elegant blocks, and North Pryor street, on the east, is showing itself up as a coming business street.

So whether you look north, south, east or west, this Sasseen-Scarratt corner, to be sold May 18th at 11 a. m., is at the central point of present actual business and of all prospective development and the business north side. Such corners are rarely offered and they are hard to get. Capitalists know this. Mr. Lynch secured the Sheehan corner on Decatur street at $1,230 per front foot, Captain English bought the Selfzer corner, on Broad street, at $1,300 per front foot, Captain Grant bought the Loyd and Decatur street corner and his son the police station corner at $1,125 per front foot, and so it goes. Our far-seeing capitalists pounce upon these attractive corners, and they are not again on the market for at least a generation. So it will be with this lot at the corner of Broad and Luckié, at the junction with Peachtree.
It is very choice, and its future value will be very great.

Terms of sale, one-fourth cash, remainder in one and six years, to suit purchaser, with 8 per cent interest, payable annually.

east authority to represent us. Now Gentlemen, What?

Now that two contesting delegations will go to the state convention from Fulton county, it is well to let the people understand something about the claims

The history of the compromise entered into by both sides, in this county, is well understood There were two organizations in Fulton county-one the Cleveland club, and the other opposing. They had their complete organization and each conducted its campaign through an executive committee, as is usual in such cases. The fight promised to be a very bitter one and neither side would have spared any effort to carry the county.

Ten days before the day set for the primary, when it appeared that the voice of Fulton county would not affect the general result in the state, and that by the time this county had acted, nearly every other county in the state would have chosen delegates, the question of a compromise, in the interest of harmony was considered, and after full conference the executive committees of both clubs agreed to support an evenly divided delegation. The Cleveland club appointed on a committee of five the three of its members who had been most active in behalf of Mr. Cleveland, and in the organization of the club, to represent it, in arrang ing for the compromise. They were Captain W. D. Ellis, president of the club, Mr. Hoke Smith and Judge George

It is not necessary to go into the details of the meetings of the committees suffice it to say that the compromise was agreed to. As a preliminary to the compromise Mr. Hoke Smith suggested that it would be well to have two prominent citizens representing each side, address a joint letter to the presidents of both clubs in order that the matter might be brought before the executive committee of each. Mr. Smith suggested the names of Dr. R. D. Spalding and Mr. T. B. Neal, and soon after communicated with them and both heartily endorsed the proposition to compromise, neither believing that a heated campaign was warranted by the slight gain to be made by either side. Then, in the presence of these two gentlemen, Mr. Hoke Smith dictated the following letter, which they signed: Atlanta, Ga., May 4, 1892.-Hon. John T. Glenn, President Hill Club; Hon. W. D. Ellis, President Cleveland Club. My Dear Sirs: We, the undersigned are represe of the Cleveland and another of the Hill senti ment of Atlanta. We also belong to the number of those who have doubted the wis dom of making an aggressive fight inside the party over the nomination. We notice that on Tuesday a number of the counties throughout the state, appreciating the importance of democratic harmony and unity, have divided their delegations equally between Cleveland and Hill, and have sent them uninstructed to the convention. We believe that the fight in Georgia between Cleveland and Hill should be stopped. We especially think that it would unwise to go through a heated campaign in this county over the selection of Cleveland and Hill delegates. Entertaining these views, we desire to urge you to call together your arrange a plan by which the delegation of Fulton county may be di-vided between Cleveland and Hill, and be sent to the state convention with a view to sun porting a delegation to the national conven composed equally of Cleveland and Hill men, instructed, however, to support, when they reach Chicago, that candidate for presi and that candidate for vice president who, in their honest opinion, will most advance the interests of the democratic party and most assuredly bring success.

T. B. NEAL,
R. D. SPALDING.

On the next day, the executive committees of both clubs having ratified the proposition and appointed conference committees, the following call was given to the daily papers:

As chairmen of the committee appointed by the Cleveland and Hill clubs, we hereby call the respective committee of five from each club to meet tomorrow, Friday, at 12 o'clock in the office of Judge George Hillyer, on Alabama street, to arrange for the naming of a joint delegation from Fulton county to the state convention of May 18th.

W. D. ELLIS, Chairman Cleveland Com. JOHN T. GLENN, Chairman Hill Com. The two committees met, Captain Ellis and Mr. Smith being present, with the other representatives of the Cleveland club, and the gentlemen of the other committee. The Constitution does not know of the full details of the meeting as no representative of this paper was present, but it does know that in due the compromise ticket was

The executive committee was requested to meet, call off the primary, and substitute a mass meeting, and it adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, A compromise has been effected between the conflicting elements of this

May 18th; and.

two conflicting clubs have unanimously re-quested the committee to declare off the primary ordered for this county for May 13th, and the substitution of a mass meeting on May 14th; therefore, in conformity with such request, coming from both sides, and for the purpose of harmonizing the party in thi emocratic voters of Fulton county for the selecting delegates to the state of May 18th, to be held in the basement of the courthouse in Atlanta on Saturday, May 14th, at 12 o'clock noon, and the primaries ordered for May 18th are here-The mass meeting was held and the result is known. The Cleveland men selected a full instructed Cleveland delegation, ignoring the pledge of their regular organization and Mr. Hoke Smith heads that delega-

The compromise men carried out in good faith their pledge, and selected the six Cleveland men whose names had been ratified by the Cleveland club, to form part of the compromise ticket. Mr. Hoke Smith heads that portion of the compromise ticket. The name of Captain Ellis is likewise on both delegations, as are several others.

Now the question is, will Mr. Smith and Captain Ellis, who with others represented the Cleveland club in arranging the compromise, allow their names to be submitted with the contesting instructed Cleveland delegation to the conventioncan they afford to do so, and thus becom the recipients of the benefits derived by the violation of the contract made with the club, through them? If they do so, can they justify their course?

As for Captain Ellis, we do not for moment believe that he will hesitate to withdraw his name from the first ticket. He vigorously protested against the violation of the good faith of the club of which he was president, and those who are most intimately associated with him in his office were at the meeting to enter their protest, and to support the compro mise.

As to Mr. Smith we prefer to believe that he will not allow himself to be judged by the plunder in his possession for if he does it will be hard for the people to understand his position, particularly when nearly every man in his office, and consequently those most intimately associated with him were at the meeting red-hot to break up the compromise, and it was one of them who called the previous question on the nomination of the straight Cleveland ticket, and before the compromise ticket was even allowed to be put in nomination before the meeting. This is the situation-

Now, what? Politics of the Future

In a recent article on Mr. Gladstone he is quoted as saying: "I am very glad, sometimes, to think that it will not be for me to face the problems which are coming on for solution."

The veteran statesman says by way of explanation that the great work of the past half century has been emancipation, or in other words we have been gradually removing restrictions and gradually allowing natural forces freer play. This part of the work is nearly completed, and we must now deal with the difficult problem of constructive legislation. Mr. Gladstone is not a pessimist, but his talk sounds like it. He sees that social questions are looming up in politics, and the shiftless issues rushing along in a never-ending procession offer demagogues a golden opportunity, and present little for practical statesmen to take hold of because it is difficult to formulate definite and permanent rules of action. In England, as well as in this country the masses are demanding reforms based upon hastily reached conclusions, and the emotions have more to do with such politics than the judgment.

But we cannot solve vexatious problem by shirking them. Pessimism will not help us. We must take life as we find it, and when we drift away from international questions to matters affecting the rights of minorities, the status of capital and labor, the relations of the rich and the poor, etc., we must have the courage of our convictions and do our level best for liberty and for man.

Undoubtedly, in the politics of the future, the statesmen whose conservative lines of thought ignore social conditions will be pushed into the background by the bold and progressive agitators, but there will still be an inviting field of action for the genuine reformers who can bring their knowledge of sociology to bear upon the legislation of their time. Statesmen will be needed in the politics of the future, but they must be interested in all that concerns mankind. They must be of the people, and in touch with the people. Without a Dull Season. Every year, when the days are nearing their long st, our southern contempora-ries have something to say about the dull

It is an unpleasant fact that there is such a season, and its pressure is felt more generally perhaps in the south than in any other section, but the fortunate man whose interests are bounded by Atlanta's horizon knows very little about

In a vague way we hear every summer the same old story of depression, hard times and stagnant industries, but we look around us and see bustle, action and the raging fever of progress. Where is the land of dull seasons? Faraway, perhaps, but certainly not here. Look at the Atlanta of today, and then glance backward one year, ten years, a generation, or half a century, if you care to see the virgin forest, and you will find that rapid but steady growth has marked each year of our history.

Never pausing, never lagging, never sleeping, never tiring, Atlanta moves onward as if in obedience to some unseen and imperative law. It was a settlement without roads to outside markets, but it grew. Railroads came, and it grew. The war turned it into a depot, a camp, a besieged fortress, but it grew. Then, from Sherman's ash-heaps and grew. More railroads, and the wooden buildings gave place to brick, and the brick in turn gave way to granite and marble. Th miles of paved streets and electric car tracks lengthened every year. The vacant places filled up; the dirt became as pre

And so the story runs every year, and all the year round. Summer will soon be here, but where is the dull season the outside world talks about? From our editorial windows we see the smoke of many factories, and hear the hum of the crowd ed mart, while the ring of countless hammers fills the air with a not unmusica clamor. As far as the eye can reach may be seen, here and there, stately structures rising skyward, day by day, and in the dim distance we catch a glimpse of sub-urban thrift and progress. This general view from The Constitution's castle in the air, is made complete by a multiplicity of details when we descend and whirl over the nine-mile circuit or leisurely take a tour of the streets. New stores hotels, places of amusement, factories public improvements, mansions, cottagesthese may be seen in every direction. The thoroughfares pulse with the living tides of travel and traffic, and the throbbing orces of progress and prosperity keep everything in motion.

And as it was last year, and is this year so it promises to be every year in the future. Men come and go-old faces disappear and new ones come-but 'this steady, never-ceasing movement of brick and granite and iron goes on forever, upward and towards every point of the compass. Why is it? The condition is enough for us-never mind about a theory. Loca tion, natural advantages, united effort, the constant drift of outside capital and enterprise in our direction-all thes points may be used in an argument, but an Atlantian never argues about his city. He simply says: "There is Atlanta-loo at ber-she speaks for herself!"

LIVINGSTON HERE.

He Returns to Georgia to Attend the State Convention.

AND IS VERY HOPEFUL FOR HILL

He Believes That Polk Has Given Up the Third Party as Hopeless—A Talk with Him.

Colonel L. F. Livingston, the conquering hero of the alliance, reached Atlanta from Washington last night.

Colonel Livingston was here but a few ninutes, leaving at once on the Georgia road rain for his home at Covington. He spent ast night in the bosom of his family and will return to Atlanta this morning. Colonel Livingston is here to attend the state convention which meets Wednesday. He is a delegate to the convention from Newton county, and will head a solid Hill lewton county, and was elegation from that county.

Colonel Livingston never looked better than he does now. He is as hearty and as robust as an athlete, and he was smiling as he stepped from the Air-Line train last night. Washington Saturday night coming straight through.
"The outlook is promising, indeed," said

Colonel Livingston as he stepped upon the outgoing Georgia road train at 11 o'clock last night. "Everything points to an anti-Cleveland delegation to Chicago. I anticifrom Georgia.

"The third party," Colonel Livingston peated, "why it is no longer considered is it? I came down from Washington to North Carolina with Colonel Polk. He came down to attend the democratic state convention of North Carolina. Polk is urging the people of North Carolina to enter the democratic primaries and fight their battles inside its ranks. If that advice is good in North Car olina why is it not good elsewhere? If democracy is good in North Carolina it is good in Georgia. I believe Polk is abandoning the third party. I believe he sees it is hope-ess and has given it up."

"What about Sam Small, colonel?" th ongressman was asked. He smiled broadly. "What about Sam?" he replied "What is he going to do? I don't think I understand what Sam is aiming at."

And Colonel Livingston laughed softly to Colonel Livingston will spend today in At-lanta. He has not yet decided how long he will be in Georgia. He will probably deliver some good democratic speeches befor geing back to Washington city.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

Hon. Joseph E. Strother, of Lincoln ounty, the happy, genial ever glorious and rrepressible "Colonel Joe," came up from Loongstreet's dark corner yesterds; to represent old Lincoln at the stat convention Wednesday. Colonel Joe is well known and held in high esteem by "the boys" here in Atlanta and all over Georgia, and is well remembered for his work as representative and afterwards as senator from his region of the state. He and Mr. Thomas B. Hollenhead will cast Lincoln's vote in the convention and they came uninstructed. "While there may be a strong sentiment in our county for Cleve-land," said Colonel Strother, "still the peo-ple down there want to win and first of all they want harmony at this convention. In my opinion this squabble in Atlanta is doing no good, and a conciliatory action is what ought to be pursued. I hope there will there has been in Atlanta. We want peace and harmony and success more than want any one particular candidate."

Hon, William H. Fleming, of Augusta will be a prominent figure at the conven Fleming says the star of de mocracy still shines resplendent over the tenth district and says the tide is changing down there every day in favor of having a democrat to re sent the tenth in con gress instead of Watson, the third party leader. "This change," says he, "has come about just in the natural drift of things. The people of the tenth district are a thinking, sober-minded people, and they have been led to extreme length by Watson, they are not going to go on wit him chasing rainbows as an idle pastime They are coming back to the democrac every day in every county, and Major Black is receiving an ovation wherever he goes to speak. All that has to be done is to tell them the simple truth and that is Oh, yes, Major Black is going to be our next congressman. Mr. Henry Cohen says it is too hot to be stirring up a red-hot prohibition contest in Augusta this year, but says he, "it's com-

"It does seem to me," he continued,
"that Augusta is having her share—more than her share of politics this year. There is the presidential campaign, the congres sional race, between the third party and democracy, the legislative race and now democracy, the legislative race and now comes this prohibition campaign. All this with the thermometer bobbing up serenely leads me to think that poor old Augusta is going to have more than her share of politics this year."

The politicians are already beginning to our into the city from all over Georgia to hang around the hotels and talk over the ituation in advance of the state convention They are as a rule the same old boys They are as a retail that have been coming to these conventions since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. They are the same jolly set of fellows. They have lost none of their merry laughter, none of their jokes so old and so reliable, none of their jollity.

As a rule they are coming to Atlanta to have a good, merry old time of it, and not for political quarrels. The convention will from the present outlook be made up of men who care not for a bitter, red-hot dis-contented session, but who want a harmoni-ous, (quiet, successful and generally satis-factory convention of it.

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES,

The Columbus Herald says that Hon. J. H. Worrill will be a candidate for representative from Muscogee county to the next legislature? Mr. Worrill is one of the most popular young men in the county. Mr. George H. Neal is also a candidate for the lower house. It is talked on the streets of Columbus that Mr. Bob Black, of Chariton Battle, F. D. Peabody, and probably one or two others will also be in the race, but as yet Messrs. Worrill and Neal are the only avowed candidates for the lower house. In all probability Judge Mark Blandford and Colonel Sam B. Hatcher will be the candidates for the senate. A leading politician told The Herald that no other names would probably be entered for the senatorship. The senatorship district is composed of the counties of Muscogee, Chattahoochee and Marion, and a primary election will be held in all three of the counties, and the candidate receiving a majority of all the votes cast will be declared the nominee for state. will be neid in all three of the counties, and the candidate receiving a majority of all the votes tast will be declared the nominee for state senator. The Darien Gazette says that the friends of Mr. William A. Wilcox are talking him up for senator and he has now quite a boom. It is thought that the nomination of Mr. Wilcox will insure the election of a democratic senator for that district, as he is very popular in Tattnall and Liberty as well as at home.

The Gazette adds:

"In justice to Mr. Wilcox we will say that he has repeatedly refused to allow the use of his name in connection with the senatorship. However, his friends claim that while Mr. Wilcox will not seek the nomination he will not decline it if tendered him."

In a card to the voters of Coweta county, announcing his candidacy for the legislature, Mr. W. W.—Thomas says:

"I am opposed to the third party movement. It will do no good, but a great deal of harm. My abiding faith is, that in the democratic party lies our only safety and our only chance of success. I will add that there should be some change in our judiciary system, or in the proceedings of our coults, so that a man who has rights to be adjudicated in a courthouse should not live, to die, persaps of old age, and these rights still be undetermined. And as he departs from the world he may see, at last, that his right and his claims, though valgable at one time, have been frittered away in attorney's fees and in unnecessary costs. If a man have rights that are withheld from him, he is entitled to a speedy trial of his cause."

Hon. E. W. Rembert, in an open letter to the people of Murray county, in answer to the question whether he would make the race the people of Murray county, in answer the question whether he would make the from his, forty-third, senatorial district he will do so if it is desired. Mr. Ren was the representative from his county in the last general assembly. It is also stated that an effort is being made by his friends in Murray to induce Colonel J. A. McCamy to make the race for the senate from that dis-trict, and it is thought he will consent. Mur-ray's last senator was Colonel McCamy.

The democracy of Heard county will asn June next to take into consideration and shape the policy of the party in the coming elections, to-wit: the gubernato Mr. W. J. Davis, of Heard county, is a

THE MUGWUMP FARCE. Complete Collapse of the Cleveland Bolt New York.

From The New York Sun. It may be too much to expect that the fizzle of the Kings county Cleveland mag-wumps, who held grandlose primaries on Tuesday for the election of delegates to what The Brooklyn Times describes as the cuse farce," will teach these delud dividuals anything; but it is certainly not too much to hope that careful, but misinfor observers in other states may glean a flood of information from this sad frustration of these sanguine day-dreamers. For the past three months the "anti-snappers" of Kirgs county have been carrying on a vigorous, fantastic canvass. They have been well supplied with stationery and typewriters; they have maintained halls, circulated leaflets and circulars, scattered postal lated leaflets and circulars, scattered cards, and had an enrollment said, by to have included 14,000 names.

In the fourth ward of Brooklyn, a democratic stronghold, the one visitor at the Cleveland cyclone primaries on Tuesday night. Gund a broken ballot box resting on a desk between two kerosene lamps, which cast a sepulchral gloom over the entire room and its two occupants, the inspectors. After a dreary wait for voters, one of the paid anti-snap inspectors said to the other: "This puts me in mind of a wake, only we haven't a bottle." "What's the matter with a can?" asked the other Clevelandite; and the two anti-snappers, Joined by a policeman, drank the health of the stuffed prophet. There were, in all, eight votes cast at this primary, five of them coming from another ward. The democratic vote of the ward is 2,600. In the thirteenth ward six weeks' hard canvassing secured twenty-three votes out of 2,164 democratic votes.

The fifth ward polled four votes out of 2,500 democratic votes.

In the night ward out of 2,600 democrates

2.104 democratic votes.
The fifth ward polled four votes out of 2.500 democratic votes.
In the ninth ward out of 2.600 democrats, twenty-five voted for delegates to Syracuse. The twenty-first ward falled to do anything, with 2.400 democratic voters.
The 5.000 democrats in the tenth ward furnished thirty-two Cleveland men.
The eighth ward with 3.600 democrats had thirty Cleveland voters.
Out of 3.457 democrats in the twelfth ward eight men voted.
In the twenty-third ward out of 1.937 voters only nineteen voters went to the primary.
The sixth ward cast fifty-six votes out of 4.780.
The Sun proceeds to sum up as follows:
The entire vote in all Kings county cast by the anti-snappers amounted to 1.244, and for the purpose of scrutiny we compare it with the vote of other organized political bodies at the late election:

A Game at Douglasville.

Douglasville, Ga., May 15.—(Special.)—The Douglasville Baseball Club crossed ball with Villa Rica yesterday afternoon. The former won by a score of 23 to 3. The principal feature of the game was the wonderful pitching of Mr. Itube Poole, who struck out nineteen men. He was ably supported by Mr. Lee Hollis. Quite a large crowth witnessed the game.

In the desired of the control of th nored and forgotten their presence is seen in disease, in political corruption, in mental stupidity, in sham and emptiness. In one way or another they always manage to get in their work. They never sleep. They never tire, they are eternally present to bless or to curse, to lift up or to cast down. They get around to every man's home and sooner or later to every man's life, bearing honor or dishonor; legitimate reward or righteous infamy. They are not to be bribed, whitewashed or buildozed; they come clean, unvarnished and unveneered, to deposit their labels on every man's character. And whatever is read on the label absolutely defines the contents. Irrespective of money, fittles, place or rank they come. The president in his seat, the judge on his bench, the preacher in his pulpit cannot escape. If the president gets labeled pigmy, pigmy he is; if the judge gets classified fraud and scoundrel, fraud and scoundrel he is; if the preacher gets down as trimmer and sham, trimmer and sham he is.

dent gets labeled pigmy, pigmy he is; if the judge gets classified fraud and scoundrel, gets down as trimmer and sham, trimmer and sham he is.

HI.

How are we to find moral laws? Just as we find natural laws. When we find the truth of natural bodies reason sees the laws which inhere in them, and prudence dictates such action on our part as these laws which inhere in them, and prudence dictates such when we come to truth on the moral plane, or to such knowledge of the facts as corresponds to the truth, reason, unless perverted, sees the laws that reside in them, and conscience dictates that these laws should be obeyed. Conscience unerringly and infallibly approves the right. By the aid of the light which is thrown upon it when the intellect comes into relations of knowledge with moral truth, it recognizes the laws—the will ought to follow. These laws make up a part of the truth. Before the right can be recognized the intelligence takes for truth is not the truth, the conscience will recognize laws for the will to follow that do not correspond to the laws of God. It has often happened that what the intelligence toke for truth did not correspond to objective reality, and, hence, was not the truth; hence the conscience has often approved and suggested lines of action that were at variance with that which was essentially and eternally right. Those who followed the dictates of conscience, however, under such conditions, did under the circumstances right. To have refused to follow conscience would have increased their confusion. A man in the bog with a certainty of death before him, ought to follow the guide that appears, even though he should not know how to lead him wrong, but only when the laws which inhere in it and which conscience suggests as the ones the will ought to follow, corresponds to the laws of God. One's conscience may lead him wrong, but only when the lacts and, hence, was not the elements to which it is related. To take it out of relation is to take from it any meaning. Error is wrong relation. When the mind assigns a place to an object other than that which really belongs to it in the order of which it forms a part, we call this error. If seeing the parts of a house scattered over a field by a storm we should confound a sleeper with a rafter, we should take it from its proper place, and take away its meaning as a part of the building. All our inowiedge is of relations. Sensations set the mind to classifying and comparing, and the knowledge it comes to is of relations. Take the sensation the mind has when a red object is presented to the eye. Does not the mind begin at once to distinguish this sensation as one of redness from other sensations that are of different colors? Is not its reality as a particular color constituted for us by its relations to other colors, by its place in the scale of colors? If there was but one color, and that color the one we now know as red, how could we know it as such? How could we call it red unless to distinguish it from some other color, with which we, for the time being, compared it or contrasted it? So true is it that reality is constituted for us by the sum of its relations, that if the relations of things are maintained no increase or diminution of the quantity of things related will be detected in our knowledge of them. If the earth were compressed into a sphere no larger than a marble, no one could know it if the relations among the objects which make it up were the same. Again the earth might be enlarged until it should be a billion times larger than it is, yet his could not be known as long as men and gates and spoons and saucers and houses and cuff buttons were enlarged in the same proportion. The leaf of a man's dining table might be ten miles square and the ball of butter on his table as big as the Stone mountain in Georgia, yet if cook and cat and stove and water bucket were increased in the same ratio, he would not recognize any differe

Here is a man and a family consists, we will say, of father and mother and children. Here is a man and a for marriage. The children are relations implied in the names husband and relations implied in the names husband and relations implied in the names husband and better the family through these relations. Take the family relation is not family through these relations. Take family we know the family through these relations. Take family we know the family through these relations. Take and the family are considered to the family are not relatively and the family are not offer the family and the family are not offer the family are not offer and the family are not offer mass and the family are suffered to the family and themselves of the subout family are suffered to the family and themselves and th family, the school and society. By observing them man is able to turn into his own character the tenderness of the home, the learning of the school, and the resources of society.

The authority of the laws which govern society is not found in the fact that the laws have been made by the will of the majority, or the will of the minority, or by the will of a king, or by the wills of any or all of the people, but because they are founded in the constitution of human nature. The basis for the constitution of human nature is the mind of God, who created man in His own image. Social laws have authority then because they are consonant with the nature of man and have their source in the will of God.

It is easy to show, however, from the records of history, that nations have often lived under laws imposed upon them that contradicted every principle of human nature. Men were accustomed once to find the laws of sodeer laws imposed upon them that contradicted every principle of human nature. Men were accustomed once to find the laws of society, as well as the laws of nature, not from the study of men or from the study of the objects of nature, but in the depths of their own imaginations.

In former times men met in convention and council and determined by resolution the shape of the earth, and the sun's method of movement. They also subjected themselves to the criticism of posterity by cutting the heads of people off who did not agree with them. But it gradually dawned on the human mind that to find out for certain the shape of the earth it might be well to devote a little study to the earth itself. Thus it happened that in the course of events men ceased to read laws into God's material universe from the boundless realms of their facty and their conceit, and fell upon the more rational habit of taking the laws that were already there. Herein is the difference betw-en medea-ral and modern times. The disposition to read laws into nature, was in-sline with the programme to read laws into the social realm without reference to the facts of human nature. The laws of astronomy today are such as have been found by a study of the atomic structure of bodies. One might fall out now with the celestial laws of Ptolemy, and head a movement to set them aside. But it is not rational to fall out with the astronomical laws of Norman Lockyer, for that is to buck against the sun, and to make faces at the stars. Lockyer's laws came straight to him from the sides, and find their value and verification in the close calculation of every steamer that sails on the wide, restless sea. The laws of civilized people today are exact transcripts from the will of God concerning the conduct of social life. Men do not now, and perhaps will not for a long time, read aright the facts of human nature, one thing is certain, however, in the making of laws among civilized, republican people, reference is had to the facts of human nature, and of the United Stat has for the basis of its chistener the lacts of the stars.

Man must follow God's law with his will, and accept God's son with his heart if he is to take the high place to which God has called him. BISHOP FITZGERALD AT TRINITY.

Called for the Third Time to Hampden-Sidney Institute.

A SOLEMN CRISIS TO HIS CHURCH.

Tearfully the Congregation Hears of the Probability of His Going, and by a Rising Vote Asks Him to Stay.

Will Rev. Dr. E. H. Barnett leave Atlanta?

That is the question which is now sorely roubling the congregation of the First Presbyterian church.
Yesterday morning, after his sermon, Dr. Barnett said:

Yesterday morning, after his sermon, Dr. Barnett said:

"There is a matter of deep concern to me, personally, which I desire to lay before the members of the church and congregation and to ask your prayers that I may be guided by God's wisdom in determining the question. I have now for the third time been elected to a prefessorship in Union Theological seminary, at Hampden-Sidney, Va. This is the largest seminary under the auspices of the southern Presbyterian church. Three years age I was elected to this chair, but I declined. Last year, without knowledge on my part, I was again elected and last week I was once more unanimously called to this important place. There have been two of the trustees of that seminary in Atlanta to urge my acceptance of the chair. I am beset by them with strong arguments why I should leave Atlanta and take up the proffered work in Union seminary. I here preach to hundreds of people, but as a professor in the Virginia seminary I would help put in the ministry some thirty young men every year, who would, in the aggregate, preach to some thousands of people every Sunday. I love this people and I am deeply troubled as to where duty calls me. I want your prayers in my behalt."

Dr. Barnett spoke in a voice that was tremulous and full of tenderness.

The announcement of the call for his services in Virginia was a surprise to the great

The announcement of the call for his services in Virginia was a surprise to the great congregation and not a pleasant piece of news by any means. Retiring from the pulpit, Mr. Sam Inman was called to preside over a congregational meeting, which was held immediately after Dr. Barnett had left the auditorium and gone into his study.

Mr. Inman made a talk full of deep feel-

Mr. Inman made a talk full of deep feeling and tender love for his pastor and the flock to which he ministers.

"There is a solemn crisis on this church," said Mr. Inman. "We are called upon to face the dictates of duty. Dr. Barnett is no ordinary man. I know he has been called several times to other fields since he came to Atlanta, but quietly, and without newspaper notoriety, these calls have been received and declined. He has not only endeared himself to the members of this church, but to the Christians of Atlanta and Georgia and the south. Dr. Barnett stands second to no man in the southern Presbyterian church, and his Christian life and his Christian service have won for him the love of the breth-ren in the northern church. All Atlanta

Mr. Inman called for expressions from others in the congregation. There were several responses, the tenor of which were that the First Presbyterian church, of Atlanta, could not give up its beloved, faithful and devout pastor and preacher.

Hon. W. C. Glenn spoke of the need that he and men like him had for such a teacher, with a composite of the need that he and respect to the need that he are the need to be a such a teacher, with a composite of the need to be a such a teacher, guide, examplar and friend as Dr. Barnett. Mr. Glenn spoke with intense earnestness

Mr. Glenn spoke with intense earnestness and deep feeling.

It was clearly evident that the members of the First Presbyterian church do not propose to give up their pastor unless it becomes as clear to them as the unclouded sun that it is their duty to do so. This was shown by the entire congregation rising to their feet to vote that Dr. Barnett should not accept the proffered professorship.

On motion, a committee of seven members of the church was appointed to meet with the officers of the church and Dr. Barnett in the latter's study this evening, to further consult about this important matter.

There was also a committee of ten ladies appointed to wait on Dr. Barnett and his

to give him up without an unanswerable reason.

And all Atlanta is with these members of Dr. Barnett's church, for Atlanta holds no man in higher esteem than it does this eloquent preacher and earnest pastor.

For nine years Dr. Barnett has been pastor of the First Presbyterian and in that time has succeeded in upbuilding a large and earnest congregation.

The members have learned to admire their pastor for his devotion to his cause, his scholarly attainments and his spledid personal qualities. If he decides to leave Atlanta his departure will be hailed with universal regret.

It will not be a splendid banquet, perhaps, but a modest and very enjoyable dinner with simple refreshments and an abundance of eloquence, wit, wisdom and fine jokes.

The executive committee will invite some prominent university alumnus to make the leading address and he will be followed by ahort, bright, crisp speeches from the young and old members alike. Mr. L. DeGive will build an immense brick structure directly in front of his new opera house on Peachtree street.

The plans for the proposed new building have not as yet been perfected, but the edifice will be six stories high.

Laborers have already begun tearing away the present building situated on the lot where the new structure is to be built.

As soon as this work is completed the construction of the new building will at once begin.

The Two-Story Residence Corner Luckie

One of the largest real estate sales of the week will be the sale of the Boyd lot on the corner of Peachtree, Broad and Luckie streets. This property is central and ought to bring a big price. Sale of the Boyd Corner.

This corner, 50x150 feet, fronting Peachtree, Broad and Luckie streets, will be sold at auction next Wednesday, May 18th, at 11 a. m. The sale is being much discussed in real estate circles and by capitalists. It has long been recognized as one of the most prominent and valuable properties of the city, and as most admirably suited for a handsome block for a bank or fancy flat building with stores. The Forsyth bridge has given quite an impetus to values on Forsyth street west of it. The new theater and hotel have determined the advance of values and buildings on North Pryor make it certain that North Pryor to Peachtree will be lined with solid business blocks. South of it on Broad street business is already established and increasing, so everything points to keen competition at the sale.

Real Estate Investments.

The Handy corner "tells the tale" so common in Atlanta, from $16,000 to $40,000, in a short time. So the Clark-Fulton corner behind King's hardware store, from $11,000 to $27,000. Take the Seltzer estate as an example—over three dollars for one in a chort executorship of three years. The Boyd corner fronting Peachtree, Luckie and Broad streets, will have a like history. The grat new theater and Arragon hotel will be drawing cards for business beyond the Boyd corner, and the $1,300 per foot front for the Seltzer corner indicates the future of Broad this side of the Boyd street corner. Capitalists have bought the Jim Loyd property on Forsyth, and they are dickering for the Alexander corner. Croakers may croak, but our most conscrvative capitalists make it a point to secure the choice corners all the same. The sale of the Boyd corner next Wednes day, May 18th, at 11 a. m., by Sam'l W. Goode & Co., will show how our capitalists view a good thing.

CAPTAIN M'BEE'S RETIREMENT.

has caused as much regret as the rement of Captain V. E. McBee from general superintendency of the Central There is no better all-round railroad man in this part of the country. Indeed, most railroad men hereabouts say that he is the best. He grasped a great deal more than the management of the operating department.

is the best. He grasped a great deal more than the management of the operating department.

The reason assigned for relieving him was that he was not in sympathy with Mr. Comer's administration. When asked about that Captain McBee is quoted as having said in his characteristic, frank blunt way: "The point was well taken, son. I do not favor the present policy of the Central's administration."

Captain McBee was known to be opposed to the idea of centralizing at Savannah. He believed that the present policy would antagonize all the rest of the state at a time when the company needed all the favorable sentiment it could get. His policy was altogether different from the one to which the Central's property, depots, wharves, cars and ships. When the Central's wharves were filled up with cotton and the American companies would not give any more insurance he cabled Europe for more. The Central's policy had been to take the risk without insuring.

Captain McBee can go either to the West Shore of the Vanderbilt system or back to the Richmond and Danville, it is said. The latter road will be only too glad to get him. It was said yesterday that he held the proxy of the Central Trust Company of New York to the 42,200 shares of Central stock which Judge Speer has enjoined from voting. He has always said that the Central is a good property.

His successor, Mr. George Dale Wadley, who has been appointed general manager is not very well known by the 'nailroad and in operating the southbound as general manager. The southbound as general manager. The southbound is a line of about one hundred and forty-fiwe miles extending from Columbia, S. C., to Savannah. Mr. Wadley is a son of Colonel William Wadley who was the Central's great president for many years.

The contract for furnishing the new hotel, the Arragon," on Peachtree street, has been awarded to Messers, M. Rich & Bros., of this city.

In this contract this firm captures one of the largest contracts that has ever been awarded to any similar firm in the whole south.

THE DUTY OF CHRISTIANS TO CHRIST

Do Good and Advance His Cause by Rold Acknowledgement of Their Principles.

Brooklyn, May 15.—(Special.)—In his mon today, Rev. Dr. Talcing language, the duty incumbon Christians of embracing rtunity that offers in this life to o rood and to advance the cause of the inglom of Christ by a bold acknowledge-ent of their principles before men. The art selected was: Mark 9:25. "Thou and and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come was a great case of domestic angth. The son of the household was pos-sed of an evil spirit which, among other large paralyzed his tongue and made speechless. When the influence was be patient, he could not say a wordriculation was impossible. The spirit hold was a dumb spirit—so-called by Christ spirit abroad today and as lively and otent as in New Testament times. Yet and the realms of sermonology, I cannot did a discourse concerning this dumb deril which Christ charged upon in my taxt, saying: "Come out of him."

There has been much destruction.

art, saying: "Come out of him."

There has been much destructive supergition abroad in the world concerning possession by evil spirits. Under the form at belief in witchcraft, this delusion swept the continents. Persons were supposed to be possessed with some evil spirit, which made them able to destroy others. In the streenth century, in Geneva, 1,500 persons were burned to death as witches. In one neighborhood of France 1,000 persons were burned in two centuries 200,000 persons were slain as witches. So mighty was the delusion that it included among its victims some of the greatest intellects of all time, such as Chief Justice Mathew Hale and Sir Edward Coke, and anch renowned ministers of religion as Cotton Mather, one of whose books, Bennini Franklin said, shaped his life—and Echard Baxter, and Archbishop Cranmer, and Martin Luther; and, among writers and philosophers, Lord Bacon. That belief, which has become the laughing stock of all sensible people, counted its disciples among the wisest and best people of Swedma, Germany, England, France, Spain and New England. But, while we reject witcheraft, any man who believes the Bible must believe that there are diabolical agencies abroad in the world. While there are ministering spirits to bless, there are infernal spirits to hinder, to poison and to destroy. Christ was speaking to a spiritual existence, when, standing before the afficted one of the text, he said, "Thou dumb and deaf spirit, come out of him."

Against this dumb devil of the text, I put you on your guard. Do not think that this agent of evil has put his blight on those who, by omission of the vocal organs, have had the golden gates of speech bolted and barred. Among those who have never spoken a word are the most gracious and lovely and talented souls that were ever incarnated. The chaplains of the asplums for the dumb can tell you enchanting stories of those, who never called the name of father or mother or child, and many of the most devout and prayerful soils will never, in this world, speak th abroad in the world concerning he ages, they were put to death as having no right, with such paucity of equipment, to live, and for centuries they were classed among the idiotic and unsafe. But in the sixteenth century, came Pedro Ponce, the Spanish monk; and in the seventeenth century came Juan Pablo Bonet, another Spanish monk, with dactylology or the finger alphabet; and in our own century, we have had John Braidwood and Drs. Mitchell and Ackerly and Peet and Gallandet, who have given to uncounted thou Mitchell and Ackerly and Peet and Gallandet, who have given to uncounted thousands of those whose tongues were forever silent, the power to spell out on the air by a manual alphabet their thoughts about this world and thier hopes for the next.
We rejoice in the brilliant inventions in behalf of those who were born dumb. One of the most impressive audiences I ever addressed was in the far west two or three years ago—an audience of about at hundred persons, who had never heard a sound or spoken a word, an interpreter standing beside me while I addressed them.
I congratulated that audience on two admanages they had over the most of us
—the one that they escaped hearing a meat many disagreeable things, and, on the other fact, that they escaped saying things they were sorry for afterward. Yet, after all the alleviations a shackled tongue is an appalling limitation. But, we are not this morning speaking of congenial mutes.
We mean those who are born with all the faculties of vocalization, and yet have faculties of vocalization, and yet have been struck by the evil one mentioned in the text—the dumb devil to whom Christ called, when he said, "Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him" ere has been apotheosization of E. Some one has said silence is a and sometimes the greatest triumph keep your mouth shut. But some-silence is a contract of the silence is a mes silence is a crime and the direct re-tion of the baleful influence of the dumb and of our text. There is hardly a man or man in this house today who has not comman in this house today who has not seen present on some occasion when the christian religion became a target for rail-ty. Perhaps it was over in the store some by and there was not much going on an the factory at the noon spell; or it was at the factory at the noon spell; or it was at the factory at the noon spell; or it was at the factory at the noon spell; or it was at the farm under the trees while you were resting; or it was in the clubroom; it was in a social circle; or it was in the street on the way home from business; or was on some occasion which you remember without my describing it. Some one so the laugh on the Bible and caricatured the profession of religion as hypocrisy, or made a pun out of something that Christ and The laugh started and you joined in, and not one word of protest did you utter. What kept you silent? Modesty? No. Incapacity to answer? No. Lack of opportunity? No. It was a blow on both your line by the wing of the dumb devil. I some one should malign your father, or mother, or wife, or husband, or alld, you would flush up quick, and either than an indignant word, or doubled up fist, alse response. And yet here is our Christian religion, which has done so much for mand so much for the world that it will have all termity to celebrate it, and yet, then it was attacked, you did not as much say: "I differ. I object. I am sorry to an you say that. There is another side this." You Christian people ought in such means these to go armed, not with earth-weapons but with the sword of the spirit. Ought to have four or five questions in which you could confront any man an attacks Christianity. A man ninety ear old was telling me a few days ago we to put to flight a scoffer. My aged fend said to the secptic: "Did you ever and the history of Joseph in the Bible?"

The said the man, "it is a fine story, as interesting a story as I ever read."

The later than the story of Joseph in the Bible?"

The said the man, "it is a fine story, as interesting a story as I ever read." bristian religion became a target for rail-that account of Joseph stooped half way?"

"Oh," said the man, "then it would not be entertaining." "We'll now," said my friend, "we have in this world only half of everything and do you think that when we hear the last half, things may be consistent, and that then we may find that God was right?" Oh friends, better load up with a few interrogation points. You cannot offered to be silent when God and the Bible and the things of eternity are assailed. Your silence gives consent to the bombardment of your rather's house. You allow a slur to be cast on your mother's dying pillow. In behalf of the Christ, who for you went through the agonies of assassination on the rocky bluff back of Jerusalem, you dared not face a sickly joke. Better load up with a few questions so that next time you will be ready. Say to the scoffer: "My dear sir, will you tell me whnt makes the difference between the condition of woman in China and the United States? What do you think of the series of the solden rule laid down in the scriptures? Are you in favor of the commandments? In your large and extensive reading have you come across a lovelier character than Jesus Christ? Will you please to name the triumphant death-beds of infidels and atheists? How do you account for the fact that, among the out and out believers in Christianity were such persons as Benjamin Franklin, John Ruskin, Thomas Carlie, Babington Macaulay, William Pena, Walter Scott, Charles Kingsley, Horace Bushned, James A. Garfield, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Admiral Foote, Admiral Farragut, Ulysses S. Grant, John Milton, William Shakespeare, Chief Justice Marshall, John Adams, Daniel Webster, George Washington? How do you account for their fondness for the Christian religion? Among the innumerable colleges and universities of the earth, will you name me three, started by infidels and now supported by infidels? Down in your heart are you really happy in the position you occupy antagenist to the Christian religion? When do you have the most rapturous views of the next w sudience and the other wing over the lips of the other half of the audience, and the voices roll back into the throats from which they started, and only here and there anything is heard, and nine-tenths of the holy power is destroyed; and the dumb devil, as he flies away, says: "I could not keep Isaac Watts from writing that hymn, and I could not keep Lowell Mason from composing the tune to which it is set, but I smote into silence or half silence the lips from which it would have spread abroad to bless neighbor-loods and cities, and then mount the wideopen heavens." Give the long-meter doxology the full support of Christendom, and those four lines would take the whole earth for God.

During the cotton famine in Lancashire, England, when the suffering was something terrific, as the first wagenload of cotton rolled in, the starving people unhooked the horses and drew the load themselves, singing, until all Lancashire joined in with triumphant voices, their cheeks sopping with tears: "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." When Commcdore Perry, with his warship, the Mississippi, lay off the coast of Japan, he bombarded the shores with "Old Hundred" composed by William Franc, of Germany. In a war prison, at 10 o'clock at night, the poor fellows far from home and wounded and sick and dying, one prisoner started the "Old Hundred Doxology," and ther a score of voices joined, then all the prisoners on all the floors took up the acclaim, until the building, from foundation to topstone, fairly quaked with the melodious ascription. A British man-of-war, lying off a foreign coast, heard a voice singing that doxology, and immediately guessed, and guessed aright, that there was an Englishman in captivity to the Mohammedans; and in the small boats the sailors rowed to the shore and burst into a guardhouse and set the captive free. I don't know what tune the trumpets of resurrectior shall play, but it may be the doxology which is now sounding across Christendom. How much more hearty we would be ir. our songs, and how easil captive free. I don't know what tune the trumpets of resurrections shall play, but it may be the doxology which is now sounding across Christendom. How much more hearty we would be in our songs, and how easily we could drive back the dumb devil from all our worshiping assemblages, if we could realize that nearly all our hymns have a stirring history. That glorious hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus," was suggested by the last words of Dudley Tyng, who was dying from having his right arm torn off by a threshing machine. That hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," heard through a telephone, converted an obdurate soul. "Shall We Gather at the River?" was a hymn first sung in our Brooklyn Prospect park at the children's May anniversary, and then started to encircle the world. "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" is a song that has saved hundreds of dissipated young men. Tom, the drummer boy in the army, was found crying, and an officer asked him what was the matter. "Oh!" he said, "I had a dream last night. My sister died ten years ago, and my mother never was herself again, and she died soon after. Last night I dreamt I was killed in battle, and that mother and sister came down to meet me." After the next battle was over, some one crossing the field, heard a voice that he recognized as the voice of Tom, the drummer boy, singing, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." But at the end of the verse the voice became very feeble, and at the end of the second verse it stopped, and they went up and found Tom, the drummer boy, leaning against a stump, and dead. That hymn, "O for a thousand tongues to sing," was suggested to Charles Wesley by Peter Bohler, who, after his conversion, said: "I had better keep silent about it." "No," said Wesley, "if you had ten thousand tongues you had better use them for Christ." And then that angel of hymnology penned the words:

O for a thousand tongues to sing My dear Redeemer's praise,

O for a thousand tongues to sing My dear Redeemer's praise, The glories of my God and King, The triumphs of his grace.

Jesus, the name that calms our fears, That bids our sorrows cease; "Is music in the sinner's ears, "Is life and health and peace.

While much of the modern music is a religious doggerel, a consecrated nonsense, a sacred imbecility, I would like to see some great musician of our time lift the baton and marshal Luther's Judgment hymn, Yarmouth, Dundee, Arlel, Brattle street, Uxbride, Pleyel's hymn, Harwell, Antioch, Mount Pisgah and Coronation, with a few regiments of mighty tunes made in our own time, and storm Asia, Africa and America for the kingdom of God. But the first thing to do is to drive out the dumb devil of the text from all the churches.

Do not, however, let us lose ourselves in generalities. Not one of us but has had our lives sometimes touched by the evil spirit of the text—this awful dumb devil. We had just While much of the modern music is a relig-

one opportunity of saying a Christian word that might have led a man or woman into a Christian life. The opportunity was fairly put before us. The word of invitation or consolation or warning came to the inside of the mouth, but there it halted. Some hindering power locked the jaws together so that they did not open. The tongue lay flat and still in the bottom of the mouth as though struck with paralysis. We were mute. Though God had given us the physiological apparatus for speech, and our lungs were filled with air, which by the commands of our will, could have made the laryngeal muscles move and the vocal organs vibrate, we were wickedly and fatally silent. For all time and eternity we missed our chance. Or it was a prayer meeting, and the service was thrown open for prayer and remarks, and there was a dead halt—everything silent as a graveyard at midnight. Indeed it was a graveyard at midnight. An organical content of the content of t or it was a prayer meeting, and the service was thrown open for prayer and remarks, and there was a dead halt—everything silent as a graveyard and midnight. Indeed it was a graveyard and midnight. An embarrassing pause took place that put a wet blanket on all the meeting. Men, bold enough on business exchange or in worldly circles, shut their eyes as though they were praying in silence, but they were not praying at all. They were busy hoping somebody else would do their duty. The women flushed under the awful pause and made their fans more rapidly flutter. Some brother, with no cold, coughed, by that sound trying to fill up the time, and the meeting was slain. But what killed it? The dumb devil. This is the way I account for the fact that the stupidest places on earth are some prayer meetings. I do not see how a man keeps any grace if he regularly attends them. They are spiritual refrigerators. Religion kept on ice. How many of us have lost occasions of usefulness. In a sculptor's studio stood a figure of the god Opportunity. The sculptor had made the hair fall down over the face of the statue so as to completely cover it, and there were wings to the feet. When asked why he so represented Opportunity, the sculptor answered: "The face of the statue is thus covered up because we do not recognize Opportunity when it comes, and the wings to the feet show that Opportunity is swiftly gone."

But do not let the world deride the church because of all this, for the dumb devil is just as conspicuous in the world. The two great political parties will soon assemble to build platforms for the presidential candidates to stand on. A committee of each party will be appointed to make the platform. After proper deliberation, the committees will come in with a ringing report: "Whereas." Pronunciamentoes all shaped with the one idea of getting the most votes. All expression in regard to the great moral evils of the country ignored. No expression about the liquor traffic, for that would lose the row of this nation, for that would l conventions will be of

The great conventions will be opened with prayer by their chaplains. If they avoid platitudes and tell the honest truth in their prayer by their prayers, they will say:

"O Lord, we want to be postmasters and consuls and foreign ministers and United States district attorneys. For that we are here, and for that we will strive till the election next November Give us office, or we die. Forever and forever, Amen." The world, to say the least is no better than the church on this subject of silence at the wrong time. In other words, is it not time for Christianity to become pronounced and aggressive as never before? Take sides for God and sobriety and righteousness. "If the Lord be God, follow him; if Baal, then follow him." Have you opportunity of rebuking a sin? Rebuke it. Have you a chance to cheer a disheartened soul? Cheer it. Have you a useful word to speak? Speak it.

buking a sin? Reduce It. Have chance to cheer a disheartened soul? Cheer it. Have you a useful word to speak? Speak it.

Be out and out, ut and down for righteousness. If your ship is afloat on the Pacific ocean of God's mercy, hang out your colors from the mastheed. Show your passport, if you have one. Do not smuggle your soul into the harbor of heaven. Speak out for God! This morning close up the chapter of lost opportunities, and pitch it into the East river, and open a new chapter. Before you get to the door on your way out this moring shake hands with some one, and ask him to join you on the road to heaven. Do not drive up to heaven in a two-wheeled "sulky," with room only for one, and that yourself, but get the biggest gospel wagon you can find, and pile it full of friends and neighbors, and shout till they hear you all up and down the skies, "Come with us, and we will do you good for the Lord hath promised good concerning Israel." The opportunity for good which you may consider insignificant may be tremendous for results, as when on the sea, Captain Haldane swore at the ship's crew with an oath that wished them all in perdition, and a Scotch sailor touched his cap and said: "Captain, God hear- prayer, and we would be badly off if your wish were an swered." Captain Haldane was convicted by the sailor's remark and converted, and became the means o' the salvation of his brother Robert, who had been an infidel, and then Robert became a ministry the godless Felix Neff became the world-renowned missionary of the cross and the worldly Merle D'Aubigne became the world-renowned missionary of the cross and the worldly Merle D'Aubigne became the world-renowned missionary of the cross and the worldly Merle D'Aubigne became the world-renowned missionary of the church for all ages. Perhaps, you may do as much as the Scotch sailor, who just tipped his cap, and used one broken sentence, by which the earth and the heavens are still resounding with potent influences. > GIVEN AWAY WITH EVERY BOYS' SUIT SOLD.

HE majority of men and young men are only fairly careful about their clothes. The simple newness of a storeful d Suits dazzles them. They are too easily pleased. Wish you were twice as particular. It's the particular man the particular young man, that this store gets. Those who want almost too much; those who think nineteen-twentieths ready-made Spring Suits not good enough for them. Missing1 sale is rare when a customer is particular.

We know our Spring Suits are superlatively good, fine stylish; that there's no such show of Spring Suits ready-made not so much fine Clothing—no, not among all the stocks with in your reach. We sell good Suits for $10, luxurious for $35 oh, yes! from $15 to $35. Some silk lined.

HE best capital a house can have—a good name got by selling good goods. You may pull and haul the seams turn our clothing inside out, put a microscope to under the quality and take out a search list for prices; we know that the prices we know the prices we know that the prices we know the prices we know that the prices we know the prices we will be prices when the prices we know the price you'll find no better goods—no lower prices. We'd be near right, likely, if we said—not as low prices.

Well, don't we manufacture the Clothing? Why shouldn't we sell a better $10 Suit, a better $15, a better $20 Suit the We are selling the suits by the hundreds: Can't get so of the lots filled fast enough.

E ARE at it early and late in our Tailoring to Measure.

The reason is this: the merchant tailoring we do is supremely well done. We have an almost embarmed ing variety of tabrics for such tailoring; we exclude the unworthy; we gather the worthy in; we have artists for tailoring; and we have enough of them to do a good deal of tailoring. In brief our tailor and our plants are plants at the same plants and the same plants. In brief—our tailors and our cloths are plenipotential. So want more to do.
